STUNG

Now honestly, you did get "stung" didn't you, when you passed us by on that lumber deal?
 Well, next time come here and we'll show you how a good company sells a good quality of lumber and other building material.
 You have a few good things coming, if you have not seen the complete stock of common lumber we carry, to say nothing about our assortment of Redwood and Yellow Pine finish. Drop in any time and have a look—you'll find just what you want and we'll make you glad you called.

to everybody in town at once today, do you know what we would say first of all? We would say—

Come Here For Drugs

Why come here, you ask. For all the reasons that enter into the arguments of a good drug store with an A 1 stock.

For the exactly right goods.

For the precisely proper measurements.

For the promptness that you like.

And the quality of drugs that your doctor likes.

Waiting to Prove it.

To Test Anti-Pass Law.

There will be a test of the anti-pass law, and after that it will probably be known whether the law is constitutional or not, and whether it can be made to apply to all kinds of office holders or only a few of them.

Last week W. B. Angelo of Plainfield was arrested for having violated the law. Mr. Angelo is attorney for a railroad, and as such has a pass over the company's road. He is also a notary public, and on account of the latter fact could not under the present law ride over the road on a pass unless he was on business for the company. When arrested he was not on business for the company. The penalty of the offense is a fine of not less than $200 or more than $1000, or imprisonment of from one to ten years.

The contention of the defense will be that the law does not apply to notary publics, school teachers, members of the school board and other petty officers of that nature. It is expected that the case will be tried before Judge Webb at Watonsia this week and it is possible that it may be taken to the supreme court. The outcome of the case will be watched with a great deal of interest by a large number of people.

A Grand State Park.

The state of Wisconsin is laying the foundation for one of the grandest parks to be found anywhere in the United States. It is to be located in the northwestern part of the state, beginning at Lake Superior and extending southward up the Blue River, a distance of fifty or sixty miles, and is to include from 20,000 to 60,000 acres of land. There are already 14,000 acres in control of the state and preparations are being carried on by State Forester E. M. Griffith for much more.

Mr. Griffith has been working for the proposition for some time and announces that the actual work of purchasing and restoring the land along the famous trout stream will be commenced this fall. A large part of the pine slashings will be burned and cleaned up this fall and next spring young pines, hemlocks and elms will be set out along the river. As the state forestry commission already has land on the St. Croix river way down into Burnett county, it will thus get a continuous reserve from Lake Superior down to where the Clam river enters the St. Croix in Burnett county.

It is planned to rid the river of all dams, which will make it a fine trout stream again and it is proposed to allow hunting, fishing and camping along the banks as in the past, although there will be restrictions imposed by the state forester, who will have a force of men continually on the Brule to watch for fires.—Wausau Herald.

A Man With Nerve.

Marshfield News.—This is not a button barster story. As to its truthfulness we have seen the evidence and talked with the remains. Emil Baenish is a farmer living near Hewitt. He is under sized and a man who could attract but little attention in a crowd. To him, we believe, is credited a feat that but few men could or would do. The history of his case listens like the wording of a dime novel but it is as true as syllables can make it. Two years ago he had the misfortune to freeze the fingers on both hands. It happened while on his way home one cold winter's night. Before he sought medical aid the frozen parts were in a horrible state, swollen and blackened. He came to Marshfield and was told by two physicians that in order to save his hands and possibly his life he would have to suffer the loss of several fingers by amputation. He gave his consent but just before going to the hospital he changed his mind. The great expense he would be to and the thought of being a cripple caused the turn in affairs. Instead of keeping his appointment at the hospital he returned home. The world did not look very bright to him. He knew some thing had to be done and resolved to be his own physician. Mixing some salve and sharpening his pocket knife he began by cutting off the little fingers on the right hand at the second joint. He next cut the end off the second finger. Then changing his amputated the ends of two fingers, at the first joint, on the left hand. No one assisted in the gruesome task. He then applied the remedies and wrapping them up in cloths awaited results. It took courage and nerve to do what he did but he had reached the point where life had no further charm. From day to day the wounded parts healed and eventually got well. Last Sunday he attended the Medford excursion and while on the platform waiting for the approach of the train he told the story, and verified its truthfulness by not alone showing the knife and stub fingers but also one of the fingers he had cut off and which he carries in his vest pocket. Baenish is quite a fellow and more so when it is known that he used one hand to cut off the other.

A New Game Warden.

Jonas Swenbult of Shawano has been appointed chief game warden of the state in place of Henry Overbeck of Sturgeon Bay, who has held the position during the past four years. A great deal of "rivalry" has existed between Overbeck and Charles D. Nelson of Algoma, who was Overbeck's first assistant, and this became so warm that the governor decided to settle the matter by appointing a third party. The job pays $1800 a year and expenses.

ABOUT LA BOCA.

George Huntington Tells Some Things About His New Location.

La Boca, August 20th 1905. La Boca is situated at the mouth of the Chagres River and consequently all the malarial germs are brought down with the floods of the river and when the tide is at ebb there are acres of mud laying far out to the S. S. Channel. There are two dredges working on the Channel every day to keep it the proper depth for navigation. The wind blowing over these flats carry the malarial germs inland and the disease is quite prevalent. Every Sunday there are parties out alligator hunting. Two were shot last Sunday. Out in the bay are a number of mountain tops or islands with no low benches, but rising abruptly from the sea which I am told contains many wild deer and wild cats. No hunter need return with an empty bag who goes there to hunt.

Out to the left of those islands well toward Panama I can see the masts of a sunken Panamanian gun boat which was sunk by Columbia guns during the time the Panamanians were in revolt. There is a pile driver on glacier who sits at my table every day during the revolt. He tells of fights which occurred and of an American who is a sort of tramp at this time who took an active part in those engagements. He gets a good position from the commission, and good pay for a while, then proceeds to juggle and loses his position, but there is always another place for him when sober. (This is hearsay.)

We are in a sort of quarantine for Bahama today. The docks are guarded and none allowed to come away. I was caught there this morning, but threatened to shut off the lights and was released. I went to send a telegram this afternoon and was stopped, informed I could not return if I entered. A messenger was called and the dispatch taken. My thoughts were "Abandon ye all hope who enter here." I expect La Boca will be shut off from Panama most any minute I work here, live and sleep here, it is immaterial to me as long as I get food and clean clothes and gasoline. In the Rapids it is beer we don't want to lose sight of, but here it is gasoline. There was one case of Babonic and another suspect taken to the hospital.

The steamship City of Para is loading at wharf it is rumored that she is short of sailors. She expects to sail tomorrow at 2 p. m. and may have trouble at first landing with quarantine officials. This is the second time quarantine has been on here since June 25th. The first lasted 21 days. It will take years for the canal to be dug. Perhaps it may never be finished. Nothing doing now but house building and sanitary work. House building goes slow; no gains in quarters as one old building is torn down and a new one built in its place which makes slow progress.

Yours truly,
 Geo. M. Huntington

Enforcing Pure Food Laws.

The State Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery and his assistants are still keeping up the good work of enforcing the pure food law. Only a few days ago fines were imposed on some butches for offering embalmed meats for sale and now that class of trade is careful about letting doctored sausages go over their counter. This week some Waukegan druggists were lined up for selling lemon extract made out of wood alcohol and when the fine had been paid there was an accumulated wisdom in that firm fully worth the price that has been paid for it. The beauty of this pure food inspection lies in the fact the dealer never knows when he is under fire. The deputy inspector walks into a store or shop, buys a pound of hamburger steak, a pound of butter, a bottle of extract or a sack of buckwheat flour in the ordinary way if the goods are on the square; if the dealer never hears of the transaction; if the goods are wrong, it's different. The plan has tendency to put manufacturers and dealers on their good behavior.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Wants Big Damages.

A farmer in the neighborhood of New London brought suit against the Northwestern railway company for $18,410. The farmer owns a tract of land thru which the railway company built its tracks. There is a law which reads that in case the company fails to build a crossing thru a man's land that he can collect $10 for every engine that runs thru the place after the company has been notified to build the crossing. The farmer claims that the railroad company was notified and that since the notification 1841 engines have passed the place, hence the demand for $18,410. The agent for the company claims that he never received any notice to build a crossing at the point indicated, but the records show that the notice was served.

Shame!

A couple of weeks ago some outside tailors were in the city and canvassed the place and carried away with them a lot of business that should have stayed right here at home. When local tailors run suit clubs they were almost prosecuted as common criminals, but these outside fellows come into the city and pick up orders amounting to $1,000 and nobody says a word, and these $1,000 would keep two tailors busy all year with their families in comfort. If any gentleman that makes money here and patronizes outside trade tells you that the local tailors are not up to date, call him a liar on our responsibility. Since the Grand Rapids Tailoring Co. came to town there is no need to go outside of the city for your clothes, and everybody knows this, or ought to know it.

Suppose these tailors come to town two or three times a year, can you imagine how much damage they do to the city? Why is it we permit this? If the press says nothing, if the business men's association does nothing, why not get a strong organization of tax payers who would watch where the money goes that is made in Grand Rapids and from Grand Rapids people. We would like to see if any doctor, lawyer, banker or business man would dare to patronize outside trade if he knew that hundreds of citizens were watching him. It is pretty hard for one man to do the fighting all alone, which is being done now by the Grand Rapids Tailoring Co., but there is no question that these outside canvassers are taking the bread and existence from our families.

If such present conditions are not changed he exodus from our city will continue. Yours truly,
 Grand Rapids Tailoring Co.

Hard on Canning Factories.

The past two or three years has been hard on canning factories, very many of them excepting the best equipped ones, having failed to make any money. The one at Seymour that was erected at a cost of $10,000 a couple of years ago, was recently sold for $2,500, the stockholders not caring to continue the fight any longer. There was a time a few years back when the canning factory in Wisconsin was in a position to make considerable money, but a combination of circumstances has made it so there is nothing in the business for the little fellow. One reason for the small returns is the fact that many new canneries have been erected within the past few years. Promoters have come along who have painted glowing accounts of what can be done at a canning factory, telling of the work that is being done by one of the old factories, and the consequence was that the citizens have tumbled over each other to get in on the deal and each other was erected. In some instances where there was not enough space where there was not enough gradon stuff raised to supply the local trade, and the farmers could not be induced to go into the systematic raising of the things necessary. In fact, about the only canneries that have come anywhere near making a success of the business are those that have had the nerve to take hold of the farm end of the proposition also and personally superintend this part of the business, in which cases they got what they wanted and in the quantities that were necessary.

A Coming Entertainment.

On Thursday evening, September 21st, the Menzley Quartet of Chicago will appear at the Methodist church in this city. They give a musical entertainment that is spoken very highly of where they have appeared, and there is no question but what they will give our people a good concert. The Dixon, Ill., Daily Sun has to say of them as follows: A splendid audience greeted the Menzley Quartette, and though the expectations of the hearers were high, they were not disappointed, for the quartette is the best combination of singers that Mr. Menzley has ever presented to the public, and that is saying a good deal. They will grace any platform, either as singing sweet, popular songs, or rendering stirring songs. This is the fourth time Mr. Menzley has given concerts in churches where Mr. Brooks has been pastor, and his company has never failed to please and profit the audience. You laugh till you cry, and the moral influence is not only wholesome, but the best. Mr. Ricketts is a young man of exceptional talent and has a remarkable gift in interpreting and expressing his selections.

Raises the Postage.

Some time ago the postoffice department made a ruling which went into effect on the 1st of September to the effect that a newspaper could no longer send out so called supplements which were in fact merchandise. The supplement started in with a few colored pictures which were supposed to be funny, and as each Sunday paper tried to outdo its neighbor the supplement racket was worked until they contained calendars, sheet music, patterns, blocks of post cards, cut out animal pictures, animal masks, dolls, soldiers and naval vessels, circulars, handbills, cardboard spectacles, discs of soluble paint and many other things that were calculated to induce the public to buy the Sunday paper. Now this sort of truck will either have to be shipped by express or else the regular merchandise rate of a cent an ounce paid for its transportation.

AT THE STATE FAIR.

Wood County Man Sees Much to Interest Him at the Big Exhibition.

The big Wisconsin state fair for the year 1905 has come and gone and has become a part of the state's history. To say that it was one of the most successful fairs Wisconsin has ever held is stating the facts very mildly. In the exhibition of agricultural products, horses, cattle, sheep, goats, poultry and pigeons, it stands at the head of the list, and was an instructive object lesson in those that were enabled to attend. It showed conclusively what intelligent and practical work can accomplish when directed in the proper channels and carried out along lines of modern improved husbandry.

No matter how discouraged and disheartened a farmer had become, this climatic conditions that had given him poor and unsatisfactory returns, he was proud to say "I am living in the best state in the Union, and my home is surrounded with agricultural possibilities that I never knew existed." And I heard one man say, "When I got home that old sign that has been nailed up for five years that said 'Farm for Sale'—comes down, and I will plant in its place a memorial tree as a man monument to my past life." When one hears such heart felt expressions as these his heart swells with gratitude and he is proud that he is a citizen of Wisconsin.

There were plenty of amusements for every one; horse racing, ballroom assemblies, machinery exhibits, a twenty mile team from Death Valley that is employed in hauling boxes, Lheratt's celebrated Italian band, Dan's, Clender's and others of less note which occupied the hand stand at different times so that there was music from morning until nine o'clock at night.

One of the most practical and instructive lessons to be learned at the dairyman and farmer was the killing of five cattle, four of which had been tested with tuberculosis to determine if they had tuberculosis, and they had responded with a rise in temperature, and to satisfy the public that there was no mistake in the diagnosis of the case they were slaughtered and dissected as a final proof. Dr. Roberts, state veterinarian, had this work in charge, while Prof. Russell, bacteriologist of the experiment station, Madison, gave a very useful talk, showing and explaining the diseased parts and trying to improve on everybody the necessity of knowing that their herd is in a healthy condition.

Tuberculosis is increasing in the state in an alarming extent and when we realize that to a great extent it is a preventable disease, there rests with us a responsibility that demands at once our most careful attention. The appearance of the cattle prevention to the slaughter as studied them in the yard was not unimportant. Two of them would easily have passed a physical examination from the most critical buyer. The other two might possibly have been thrown out. Now the fifth one was a family cow furnishing milk for family use and was condemned upon being examined. Her general appearance was bad, showing conclusively that something was wrong and was not fit to furnish food for any human being. The postmortem examination revealed an advanced stage of tuberculosis in the most fatal condition.

Her lungs had an abnormal growth, and her liver was full of tubercular cells. Along her spine they were as thick as you could place your finger, and under her fall of them, and when opened with the dissecting knife revealed a mass of puss, and was certainly a most interesting and instructive case and I felt that the practical knowledge that I had gained was worth twice what my expense had been in attending the fair.

I intend at some future time to take up this interesting subject in detail and point out to you the manner of using the tuberculin test, which will require a lengthy article.
 A. S. Robinson.

What Will the Future Be?

Will the grass grow on the streets of Grand Rapids or will it be what it ought to be? With the advances it has it ought to be one of the loveliest cities in the world. We are told in the book of Judges that Deborah said unto Barak, "The Lord is with thee, O Barak." And being routed by the people, Barak went forth and subdued a kingdom.

The business men who would like to see the city to flourish and to keep it about with the ever advancing tide of progress. They must not be satisfied with the present conditions, that came from our forefathers or with the methods that brought success 50, 60, 70, 80 or even 100 years ago. As the times change the business system is constantly being renewed to keep the business strong and vigorous, so must the business people keep the city up to the standard by improved methods. It is astonishing how quickly a place will go down if the people do not get their shoulder to the wheel and keep it going.

Would it not be wise if the business people would get together during the winter months and organize an assessment association with a tax of 5 cents to 25 and in that way procure enough money to purchase a new ground, new truck and ball park, after which there would be a place in which to hold Fourth of July celebrations and other amusements which would bring in the people from the country and surrounding towns. During the summer months there might be held Saturday matinee races.

There is no reason why, if the people would take hold of the matter, that four or five thousand people could be induced to come to the city during the season, and that they would spend at least two dollars each, making an aggregate of twenty thousand dollars that would be left in the city which we do not get now.

It is said that the purest water when left at rest soon becomes stagnant, and the same thing is true of a community, it must be kept in motion or it soon becomes dead to the world.

Library Commissioners Meet.

The recently appointed library commissioners held a meeting on Monday evening and elected an organization. The new commissioners are Mrs. H. H. Wood, president; Mrs. T. A. Ayler, E. P. Witter, E. J. Ayler, J. A. Gaynor and E. P. Ayler. The law requires that the commissioners shall hold one, two, and three years, and lots were cast to determine how this should be decided. It resulted in Mrs. Goggin and Mr. Wood being elected for one year term, Mrs. Ayler and Mr. Witter for two years term, and Messrs. Gaynor and Ayler for the three years.

Officers were then elected, as follows: E. J. Wood, president; Mrs. Ayler, vice president; Mrs. Ayler, secretary, and E. P. Witter, treasurer. It was decided to place two more libraries in the public schools during the coming year. During the past year there have been three libraries in the public schools and the scheme was found to be a great success. Many books were drawn, and it was evident that these books in many instances were read by the parents as well as the children.

Splitting Ordinances Popular.

Now that many of our larger cities have adopted anti-splitting ordinances, many of the smaller towns are following suit and making laws that will prevent their citizens from splitting on the sidewalk. There is no question but what splitting on the sidewalk is a filthy habit, and there is little doubt but what it is also an extremely unhygienic one, and where it can be stopped it is a good thing for the community.

Attorney D. D. Conway was in Milwaukee last week where he sold some property belonging to him. He also attended a meeting of the state central committee, of which he is a member.

Rev. Sam Groenfeldt of Sturgeon Bay spent several days in the city the past week the guest of Rev. O. Madison. On Sunday evening Rev. Groenfeldt held services in the Scandinavian Moravian church.

Mrs. A. F. Roach and two children, who have been spending the past summer with Mrs. Roach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Grierson, left on Tuesday for Great Falls, Mont., where she will join her husband.

Joe DeWane, who has held down the position in the Wood Co. bank as bookkeeper for some time past, left on Saturday for Green Bay, where he will visit with friends and later attend medical college either in Milwaukee or Chicago.

There is just one way to look right, be right and to do right, and that is to step into M. J. Blatter's tailor shop and get one of those up-to-date suits which he is turning out since he got back from the city. No trouble to show you the latest.

Dr. W. D. Harvie returned on Friday from a two weeks outing at Lake Butte des Morts, near Oshkosh. He went down to get rid of his annual attack of hay fever and at the same time kill a few ducks. He reports that he accomplished both objects and had a very good time on his trip.

The new hall in the Wood block which will be occupied by the Elks is nearly completed and if nothing occurs to stop them it is probable that they will open the place with a social dance on Friday of next week. The rooms are very pleasant and will be a great improvement over the old place.

Last Friday there was an influx of peaches into the city and many took advantage of the opportunity to secure their supply for canning. There was some nice fruit among what came here and the prices was moderate as it generally gets in this locality. The merchants report that there will be another car in tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Maud again occupy their home on High Street, which they vacated some time ago in order to give the carpenters full swing while they were making some extensive alterations. The house has been considerably enlarged and many improvements made, and now presents a very nice appearance.

Miss Mabell Grader met with what might have been a serious accident on Wednesday afternoon of last week. She was riding horseback with a companion when the animal stumbled and threw the young lady to the ground with great violence, the result being that she received a number of cuts and bruises, some of which were quite severe. She has since recovered sufficiently to sit up.

The special train which went up on the Northwestern road on Tuesday to Marshfield from Wausau did not carry much of a crowd. There were six coaches in the train, but one would have accommodated all of the passengers when they passed thru this city. Considering the weather it was a wonder that so many went up to take in the fair, as it looked as if there might be another rainy day at hand.

Oct. 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 the O. M. & St. Paul Ry. will sell excursion tickets to Los Angeles, Cal., at one fare for the round trip on account of The Women's Christian Temperance Union. Tickets good to return within 30 days but not later than November 30th. For side trips, stop over privileges, connections and any other information, please call on or address G. O. Anderson, local agent.

Roy W. A. Peterson leaves this week to attend the annual conference of the Methodist church. Mr. Peterson has had charge of the Methodist church in this city during the past five years, and during that time has proven himself to be an energetic and conscientious worker, and his many friends here will be sorry to know that he is going to leave the community and take up the work in some other place.

For the Inter-State Fair to be held at La Crosse, September 25 to 30, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell excursion tickets for the round trip from stations within 150 miles of La Crosse at one fare, on September 25 to 30, inclusive, good to return until October 3, 1905. Three fast trains to the Pacific Coast daily. "The Overland Limited" (electric lighted throughout), less than three days enroute. Another fast train is "The California Express" with drawing room and tourist sleeping cars. The best of everything.

Milwaukee Sentinel.—Mrs. L. M. Alexander, Grand Avenue, entertained at luncheon Friday for her guest, Mrs. B. R. Guggins of Grand Rapids. The table was laid for fourteen under a canopy of Japanese parasols festooned with gauze ribbons in lavender and white and green vines. At each cover were fancy willow baskets filled with flowers. The guests included Misses Guggins, Everett A. Smith, Roddis, H. H. Cutler, J. F. Conant, J. A. Sheridan, Clement Hackney, Henry Kloes, Stetson, Cal Sederholm, A. H. Lovings, W. S. Paddock and Hayes.

Frank Whitrock of the Tribune office this afternoon. Mr. Whitrock states that the weather man is giving him just the kind of weather he has been sighing for some time and that if it continues for awhile he will be able to supply the country for miles around with water and musk melons. Last Sunday he sold over a thousand melons and he says that by next Sunday he will be able to supply anywhere from a thousand to ten thousand melons. The light frost has injured the musk melons somewhat, but he says the water melons are coming along in nice shape.

Archie McMillan returned on Friday from the cranberry marsh, he having been on the Searls Bros. place during the past two weeks where he was supervising the picking. He reports that the crop is very light, but there this season, and that there are many berries that have been attacked by the cranberry worm, which will further reduce the crop. The company will have in the neighborhood of five or six hundred barrels of berries from their marsh this season, which is a very small crop. A part of the time the pickers had to be paid as high as 41 cents in order to induce them to work.

There is no more untouchable comedian before the public today than Warren W. Ashley, now in his fourth season as the jolly, blundering "Christopher Outting" of Willis Maxwell Goodhue's ever popular farcical comedy, "Hello Bill," which comes to the Grand Opera House Saturday night. Although Mr. Ashley has played the part over a thousand times he enters into it today with just as much spirit and fervor as he always has in the past and gives a performance unequalled by anyone who has ever played the part. He will be seen here with "Hello Bill" next Saturday night, Sept. 23rd.

Sidney Pilson who is this year assuming the role of "William Fuller" (Bill) in Willis Maxwell Goodhue's popular farcical comedy, "Hello Bill," is unquestionably one of the comers on the American stage. Altho Mr. Pilson is new to this city, it is confidently said by those who have seen his performance of Mr. Goodhue's most laughable character, to give a better impersonation of it than any of his predecessors. It is saying a great deal, as some of the best low comedians in America have been associated with the part. Besides being a particularly graceful and unctuous comedian, Mr. Pilson is an extremely handsome chap with a boyish, wig personality which endears him to his audience before he has been on the stage five minutes. He is certainly causing a tremendous amount of talk this year and it is expected that theatre goers of this city will have a new ideal of or seeing Pilson as "William Fuller" next Saturday night, Sept. 23rd at the Grand Opera House.

A New Light.
Will Carey has taken the district management for the sale of the F. P. lighting system. The light is furnished by gasoline, and the F. P. is said to stand for "Fire Proof" and "Pool Proof," two things that the manufacturers claim for the new system. Several of the plants are already in operation in this vicinity, and the owners are greatly pleased with the results. The one great advantage of the new system is the fact that the same amount of light can be furnished at a much less cost than when using electric lights, and the owner of the plant is entirely independent of his neighbor. It is said that one gallon of gasoline will run a 500 candle power light for 24 hours, which if true, is certainly about as cheap as one could expect.

Mr. Carey recently returned from Cincinnati, where he had been to interview the manufacturers of the new system, and while there he acquired a whole lot of information concerning the matter. There is no doubt but it is a good thing and that Mr. Carey is the man to introduce it.

A Peculiar Wreck.
A peculiar wreck occurred on the St. Paul road on Thursday of last week near Foss siding. A log fell from a loaded log car, and striking the embankment was thrown under the train. Here one of the trucks struck it and hauled it along for some distance when an obstruction was struck which threw the rear truck of the car from the track. The log was left there, but the car ran on for several miles with the rear truck off the track until Foss siding was reached, when the rear truck took the siding, while the front truck remained on the track. This could only continue a short distance, and the consequence was that there was quite a mixup. Luckily nobody was hurt.

TYPEWRITER PAPER—A large supply always on hand at the Tribune office. Everything from a first class linen down to the cheaper grades. The price tells the quality. Also manuscript covers.

Convention Now in Session.

The annual state convention of the Christian churches at Wisconsin opened in the Methodist church last evening with a very interesting session. The U. A. R. Hall was used as head quarters and dining room. About forty delegates were present, and many others are yet expected to arrive. Rev. George H. Campbell of Chicago will speak this evening. Thursday night session will be held in the Evangelical church on the West side of the river. Rev. J. H. Carr of St. Louis will deliver the address Friday night.

Profound.
The word "profound" means, from two Latin words, "pro" or "deep" and "fundus" or "bottom." It means, therefore "profound" means to a certain depth of opinion, feeling or knowledge, and out or ignoring knowledge is "profound." An opinion formed after a long acquaintance and experience, and after thorough investigation and study may be erroneous, but cannot be styled "profound." When the feeling and experiences of the world are disregarded, when the fact of history and science are ignored or denied, the conclusions or opinions thus arrived at must not only be mistaken, but they must be the result of prejudice.
